

Music has always been a very important part of the life of Beverly Jaques. She is a graduate of the Westminster Choir College of Princeton, NJ, with a Bachelor's in Music Education (BME). She taught K-12 music in New Jersey and Massachusetts, and worked as a choral director, piano and voice teacher. Additionally, she sang in numerous choirs and choruses, as well as a cappella, close harmony singing groups.

From 1992-2012, Beverly pursued a career in development and institutional fundraising at Harvard University, at two independent schools in greater Boston, and as a consultant and marketing director for Jaques & Company.

When she and her husband, Bill Jaques retired in 2019, they relocated from the Boston area to The Landings in Savannah, Georgia, where Beverly very much enjoys serving on the Board of the American Traditions Vocal Collection.
