

A native of Lexington, Kentucky, Kim Huffman has previously lived and worked in Atlanta, Charleston, Germany and now finds himself in Savannah. Kim, now happily retired, previously directed international sales for a major technology consulting company.

Kim and his wife Bettina live in the Landings, where he enjoys pursuing his passions as a photographer and a poet. Bettina is a fiber artisan, and they both love to travel and explore new music, cultures, cuisines, people and art forms. They are avid bicyclists, and love to incorporate their love of bicycling into their travel adventures.

Kim looks forward to joining the ATC board and lending his talents, time and interests to help grow ATC audiences and have fun enjoying fabulous music with like-minded friends, old and new.
